

Arriving in the Present: Transcultural Perspectives in Contemporary German-Speaking Contexts—A Reading Group

new reading group

We are pleased to announce a new reading group, the first phase in a three-part initiative to expand and diversify the community of the Department of German at Princeton by fostering the study of an increasingly relevant field in German Studies: “Transnational Literatures” and “Literature of (Post-) Migration.” A group organized by Professors Sara S. Poor and Barbara N. Nagel and consisting of faculty and students from Princeton, Rutgers, and U Penn will meet six times in the coming academic year to discuss new works being discussed in social media, cultural venues, and in academic circles.

Books will be supplied for up to 30 participating students.

September 27

Sharon Dodua Otoo
Herr Gröttrup setzt sich hin
(short story, 2016)

November 1

Valeska Grisebach
Western (film, 2017)

November 29

Emine Sevgi Özdamar
Ein von Schatten Begrenzter Raum
(novel, 2021)

Tuesdays

12-1:15 PM EST
East Pyne 011

Lunch will be provided

Hybrid

To participate RSVP to Mary Grayson Brook
mbrook@princeton.edu

PRINCETON UNIVERSITY

Humanities
Council

Made possible with generous support provided by a Magic Fund Flash Grant from the Humanities Council.