

Arriving in the Present: Transcultural Perspectives in Contemporary German-Speaking Contexts—A Reading Group

We are pleased to announce the continuation of our new reading group, the first phase in a three-part initiative to expand and diversify the community of the Department of German at Princeton by fostering the study of an increasingly relevant field in German Studies: “Transnational Literatures” and “Literature of (Post-) Migration.” A group organized by Professors Sara S. Poor and Barbara N. Nagel and consisting of faculty and students from Princeton, Rutgers, and U Penn will meet three times in the Spring 2023 semester to discuss new works being discussed in social media, cultural venues, and in academic circles.

Our objectives are twofold:

- 1) to familiarize ourselves with some recent primary materials (short story, novel, film, drama); and
- 2) to foster connections between Germanists both here and at our neighboring institutions.

February 21

Fatma Aydemir
Dschinns (2022)

March 28

Max Czollek
Desintegriert Euch! (2018)

April 25

Dimitrij Kapitelman
Eine Formalie in Kiew
(2021)

Books will be supplied for up to 30 participating students.

Tuesdays

12-1:15 PM EST
Location TBD

Lunch will be provided

Hybrid

To participate RSVP to Prof. Sara Poor at spoor@princeton.edu